California based company Kepler Motors will unveil an all new supercar called MOTION at the Dubai Motor Show end of this week.

The MOTION is an all-wheel-drive hybrid that is powered by a modified 550 hp Ford EcoBoost twin-turbo 3.5-liter V6 powering rear wheels, on the front is a 250 hp electric motor making the total output an impressive 800 hp.

Kepler Motors claims that 0-60 mph comes in just 2.5 seconds and the top speed is over 200 mph (322 km/h). Production will be limited to only 50 examples and first deliveries are expected to start in 2011. It all sounds too good, but we'll see soon how real this whole thing is.
